BANDITS HUNTED IN BRONX AFTER SUBWAY HOLD-UP

Masked Men Cow- Agent,
Escape With $700—One
Thief Captured.

The highways, lanes and thickets of the Bronx were searched with flashlights early to-day for four masked bandits who held up Joseph Luccese, ticket agent in the subway station at 128th Street and Cypress Avenue, and escaped with $700.

The robbers appeared at the south subway station about 11 o'clock while a third pointed a revolver at Luccese and ordered him to throw up his hands. Nearby in the street were a Sergeant and a policeman in a police booth. There were no passengers in the station.

The two bandits who approached the agent suggested that he "take a walk for himself" to the end of the platform or—and they wobbled their revolvers in his face. The suggestion appealed to him and he strolled away. The two robbers went into the ticket booth and gathered up from the safe two money bags containing the day's and part of the night's receipts.

The police of the Alexander Station and detectives on the case seemed to be greatly piqued because reporters had learned of the hold-up, and withheld the address of the ticket agent.

The Cypress Avenue station is on the new Hunt's Point division.

A short time before this hold-up a lone bandit who tried to plunder a Sixth Avenue stationer's shop was captured after an exciting chase during which a policeman fired two shots. The police say the prisoner told them he had come here from Philadelphia, bought a revolver and started a hold-up tour because he had heard stories of various hold-ups in New York and how the bandits "were getting away with it."

Benjamin Karstedt, sixty, was alone in his stationery shop at No. 335 Sixth Avenue shortly after 10 o'clock when a tall, broad-shouldered young man entered and, pointing a revolver at him, ordered him to hold up his hands. Karstedt obeyed and watched the intruder as he walked back of the counter and started to open the cash register containing $600.

The realization that he was to lose his money emboldened the elderly stationer. Lowering his hands he made a lunge at the thief, who turned, struck Karstedt on the head with the butt of his revolver and fled. Before he was struck Karstedt screamed. Patrolman Thomas Gaine of the East 51st Street Station heard the cry, saw the thief dart out of the stationery shop and immediately gave chase.

The robber ran north on Sixth Avenue to 47th Street and turned east, with the bluecoat in close pursuit. Half way toward Fifth Avenue Gaine called on the fleeing outlaw to halt, then fired twice into the air. "If you don't stop I'll kill you!" Gaine shouted.

The thief stopped. On the way to the West 47th Street Station Gaine picked up a revolver which he said the thief had discarded.

At the station house the prisoner described himself as Robert Porter, nineteen. He said he lived at Mills Hotel No. 1.

He was locked up charged with felonious assault and attempted robbery.

Frank Kelly, thirty-four, a ship-builder, of No. 605 Marshall Street,

New Brunswick, N. J., was held up by four men at 51st Street and Avenue A last night and after being robbed of $15 was slashed from his left ear to his mouth because he resisted. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it required eleven stitches to close up the wound. The robbers escaped.

Two armed men entered the 8th Mors station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, near Elizabeth, early yesterday morning, the agent, William Van Sant, said, bound and gagged him and took $700 from the cash drawer. They left no trace and Van Sant could give no description.

STRIKE LEADS TO 'CLEAN-UP'
Make Fortune When Theatres Are Closed.

If there hadn't been a theatrical strike Charles Lyons, for eight years treasurer of the Belasco Theatre, wouldn't have been working in a Wall Street brokerage house last month. The chances are also that he wouldn't have become interested in silver and oil stocks, and he wouldn't have "cleaned up" on these securities.

But there was a strike and Lyons did these things. He resigned from the theatre yesterday and will leave on Oct. 12 for San Salvador to look after his mining interests. Friends of Lyons estimated his gains in six figures. He lives in New Rochelle.

It's weighed and packed in sanitary boxes by machinery. No handling.

The thing to do when you're tired and out of sorts is to drink a steaming cup of Tetley's—full-flavored and stimulating—almost makes you feel better to look at that cup of deep-colored fragrant tea!

It's the skilful blending that makes Tetley's such good tea—a blend of teas from 15 or more of the world's finest gardens.
